

Hello everyone and anyone!

That's me!

I am a researcher at Yale studying jellyfish! I do local diving and catching off of shores/marinas in New England to collect them and would really appreciate keeping an eye out for them if you find yourself in the presence of a jelly! (: Either contacting me (lauren.mellenthin@yale.edu) or logging the sighting on JellyWatch (<https://jellywatch.org>) would not only help me collect them but serves as a way to catalog the diversity of jellies here in the long island sound and beyond! Also, distributing this website to other communities that might also be interested would be awesome! Thank you!

If anyone wants to chat further about what I do or other local diving/jellies, please reach out and I would be happy to talk about it!! (:

Please share to anyone in the New England area that finds themselves seeing jellies often! But also anyone in any location can use this resource to log any jellyfish sighting anywhere in the world, pretty neat!
